Some jobs are just too tough for your average fast-talkin' high-tech gun-for-hire. Sometimes...to get the job done right...you need someone crazier than a sack'a ferrets. You need Wade Wilson. The Crimson Comedian. The Regeneratin' Degenerate. The Merc with a Mouth...

DEADPOOL

Recently, Wade decided to do something good with his life, so he's traveling the country trying to learn how to be a hero. After trying and failing to join the X-Men and learning nothing from Spider-Man except how to fight a monkey, Deadpool finally hit pay dirt when he liberated a small town in rural Georgia from a group of corrupt local police officers and a redneck super-hillbilly with lightning powers. Yep, Wade's finally done somethin' heroic...and he's feelin' pretty good about himself...

Deadpool then found his way to Las Vegas where he ticked off a local casino owner by winning way too much money and...well...just being Deadpool. He is then confronted by the casino's hired muscle, The House. After The House hands Deadpool his ass, Wade learns that the House is actually his old pal Weasel, now wearing a gigantic robotic suit of armor and making a pretty penny acting as a paid guardian for the local casinos. Wade then escapes from his bonds and threatens to go to work on Weasel with a hammer if he doesn't let him wear one of Weasel's spare suits and bring him in on the operation as his sidekick. Weasel agrees and Deadpool puts on the suit, calling himself Wildcard. And just in time too. The super villain and man-in-a-bear-suit known as Grizzly attacks one of the casinos and in the ensuing brawl, Deadpool secretly tells Griz about a proposition that he has for him...
